

Special Session

Building Diabetes Coalitions: The Appalachian Model

Tuesday, May 1, 2007

3:00-4:30pm

Darrlyn Cornelius-Averhart, MPH, CHES

Program Development Consultant

Overview

- Our Collaboration
- Overview and history of the project
- How a coalition is organized
- How partnerships are formed
- How coalitions can monitor outcomes
- How a coalition can be sustained
- Q & A

Purpose

- Learn more about Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC);
- Identify the components of a regional model for supporting coalitions in rural, distressed counties;
- Learn more about community coalitions; and
- Articulate ideas on how this project can be used in other regional settings.

Our Partnership

- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)
- Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC)
- Marshall University (MU)
 - Center for Rural Health

